

Lauren Hilton

MTH 220

9 May 2014

Group K Dynamic

Our group worked together reasonably well. We were able, despite very difficult schedules, to meet to work on the project. We also took advantage of Google Docs to work together on the report, handout, proposal, and presentation.

I contributed to the project by writing approximately half of the proposal, doing half of the presentation, helping with the consolidation of the data, and doing all of the actual R code (although Michelle would sit with me while I worked and we would discuss things). I also wrote about a third of the final report and helped with the handout revisions.

Michelle wrote approximately half of the proposal, did half of the presentation, helped with the consolidation of the data, discussed the R code with me as I wrote it, and also wrote about a third of the final report. She also helped with the handout revisions. She was often available to work and would take initiative and work in the Google Docs when they were started and always had things done on time.

Elizabeth read over the proposal, but did not contribute to the writing. She worked on the handout draft, helped with the handout revision and wrote a third of the report. She did not contribute unless prompted by Michelle or I and often took a long time to complete tasks.

Me – 40%

Michelle – 40%

Elizabeth – 20%